

SUPRA Award Winners 2002

Four Awards assigned to Supra at the WHAT HI-FI Award Gala held at Hilton Hotel in London End of Aug 2002.

This is "The Audio/Video Oscar" with the most prestigious awards.

Supra Rondo 4x2.5

Category: Loudspeaker Cables

Supra Rondo 4x2.5 ★★★★★

"...This is a powerful-sounding cable, needing little run-in to deliver a punchy bass and vibrant treble. There is no thickening of sound sometimes encountered with chunky conductors, and if your amp and speakers are capable of producing solid visceral bass, you won't go far wrong."

What Hi-Fi September 2002

Supra X-ZAC

Category: Optical Cables

Supra X-ZAC ★★★★★

"Whatever with music or DVD soundtracks, the Supra cable sounds good, with a grater sense of focus than very cheap optical cables, and slightly less mechanical feeling to the music. Performance flow convincingly and even with movie soundtracks there seems to be more power in reserve. Indeed it chalanges the Black Rhodium glass cable, and does so for a third less. If you are limited to optical connections in your system, this is a very good buy."

What Hi-Fi September 2002

Supra AV-3

Category: A/V Cables

Supra AV-3 ★★★★★

"Those wacky Swedes are at it again.....this is the champ of the test, and by a surprising margin, too. The Supra delivers outstanding three-dimensionality and contrast, and for colour realism it is exemplary. If you want Monsters Inc to jump off the screen and into your room, this is without doubt the component cable for you."

What Hi-Fi October 2002

Supra AV-6

Category: Video Cables

Supra Scart RGB ★★★★★

"...Like the slightly more expensive Chord, the Supra is an RGB-only cable, and it is obvious that paying attention to one thing at a time pays dividends, as the image quality is again first rate. Movies played through this cable benefit from an impressive depth of field, while colours and contrast levels are equally impressive."

What Hi-Fi April 2002